About the Principles for Responsible Management Education (PRME)

The Principles for Responsible Management Education (PRME) is a United Nations-supported initiative founded in 2007 that aims to raise the profile of sustainability in their classrooms through Seven Principles focused on serving society and safeguarding our planet.

PRME engages business and management schools to ensure they provide future leaders with the skills needed to balance economic and sustainability goals, while drawing attention to the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and aligning academic institutions with the work of the UN Global Compact. Driven by its mission to transform management education, PRME equips today's business students with the understanding and ability to deliver change tomorrow. As a voluntary initiative with over 800 signatories worldwide, PRME has become the largest organized relationship between the United Nations and management-related higher education institutions.

“The PRME initiative was launched to nurture responsible leaders of the future. Never has this task been more important. Bold leadership and innovative thinking are needed to achieve the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

Antonio Guterres

Secretary-General (2017 - Present)

The Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs)

In September 2015, all 193 Member States of the United Nations adopted a plan for achieving a better future for all – laying out a path over the next 15 years to end extreme poverty, fight inequality and injustice, and protect our planet. At the heart of Agenda 2030 are 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and 169 related targets that address the most important economic, social, environmental and governance challenges of our time. The SDGs clearly define the world we want – applying to all nations and leaving no one behind. Successful implementation of the SDGs will require all players to champion this agenda; the role of higher education is critical to this.

Letter of Commitment

LETTER OF COMMITMENT

The mission of PRME is to transform management education, research, and thought leadership globally by providing the Principles for Responsible Management Education framework, developing learning communities, and promoting awareness about the United Nations (UN) Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). As a platform to raise the profile of sustainability in schools around the world, PRME equips today's business students with the understanding and ability to deliver change tomorrow.

Working through Seven Principles, PRME engages business and management schools to ensure they provide future leaders with the skills needed to balance economic and sustainability goals while drawing attention to the SDGs and aligning academic institutions with the work of the UN Global Compact. Business and management schools, as well as management and leadership development institutions, are among the most influential actors in the world, as they shape the skills and mindset of future leaders.

As an affiliated member of Vietnam National University, Hanoi, International School (VNU-IS) pursues the mission to conduct training, scientific research, and technological transfer in line with international accreditation criteria based on fundamental, applied and interdisciplinary sciences in order to contribute to providing highly qualified human resources and scientific and technological products of international standards for the development of Vietnam. Accordingly, VNU-IS has advanced its practices in PRME, including teaching, research, ecosystem, students, and firms. As an institution of higher education, with the capacities and mission of training existing and potential managers, we declare our willingness to make progress under the criteria and requirements set by the UNPRME.

In our first Sharing Information on Progress report, we have examined a selection of existing initiatives we engage in under the guidance of responsible management education. We commit to deploying the UNPRME as a platform to shape the future.
